

All eyes on the January 22 Stone Wall

Hello Winter Adventure Enthusiasts,

Great news. As of Sunday, January 15, 6pm, we are looking good for a snowshoe race next Sunday. We currently have complete coverage, although thin. There is about 1-3 inches of new snow covering old snow in some locations. All water is frozen solid.

We will see what the week brings. Keep a lookout for an updated conditions report on Facebook, and our website (www.winonaforest.com) later in the week.

At this time, according to the weather forecast, I do not foresee a circumstance that would cause a race postponement. This would only take place with significant race day rain forecasted.

Pre Registration is very helpful, helping us to plan accordingly. However, you can register on race day.

See you Sunday.

Registration and Additional Information

Stone Wall Runners Blast Off

